Chat Transcript

info: Thanks for your interest in NVCC Distance Learning. An ELI staff member will be with you shortly. Your waiting time will be approximately 0 minutes and 30 seconds.
info: You are now chatting with ‘Laura’
Laura: Good morning Lance, how can I assist you?
Lance: Hello - could you please verify that I am able to register for the spring 2013 semester? When I log into DIS and check the enrollment status section, I don’t see a Spring 2013 NVCC option.
Laura: Lance, thank you for your question. I think our Registration Team could assist you best with this particular question. You can give them a call at 703-523-3360 or send an email to eliap@nvcc.edu.
Lance: Okay, I’ll do that. Thank you!
Laura: You are welcome! Did you have any other questions?
Lance: No, that’s the only one
Laura: Great! Please feel free to stop back by chat with any other questions.

ELI Common Reader Program
The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks, Rebecca Skloot

Do you feel more sympathy for the scientists or the family?

Posted on November 5, 2012 by Katie

As a journalist, Skloot is careful to present the encounter between the Lacks family and the world of medicine without taking sides. Since readers bring their own experiences and opinions to the text, some may feel she took the scientists’ side, while others may feel she took the family’s side. What are your feelings about this? Do you feel more sympathy for the family’s or for the scientists’ perspective?

Why don’t people follow through on doctor’s advice?

Posted on September 17, 2012 by Natalie

In the early chapters you learn Henrietta sought medical attention for several diagnosis but did not follow up. Why do you think people seek professional advice but then do not follow through with the care or treatment options? Does this still happen today? What impact does this have on the person, family, health care professionals and health care industry? Should providers follow up with patients to see if they sought treatment or does their role end with the advice? Does this suggest that health care is not really fulfilling its role of treatment and healing?

What strikes you about the book?

Posted on September 10, 2012 by Katie

Now that you are starting to get into the book a bit, write your reaction to what you are reading. For this post, select a quote or a scene from the first 6 chapters of The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks. Write the quote or describe the section and write your reaction to it.

Started by Peasant Katie A 2 months ago

Hey Everyone! The books are in the mail so you should get your copy soon if you haven’t already. We will use the discussion forum to continue the book talks started on the blog. Have you gotten your book yet? What ELI courses are you enrolled in this semester?

Katie A.
